Introduction

In this fun ESL TV game show, students try to complete sentences in the same way as another student.

Procedure

Divide the students into two equal teams. Give each student several small pieces of paper. One student from each team comes and sits at the front of the class.

Read a sentence to the class using the word 'blank' for the missing part of the sentence, e.g. 'It was so hot yesterday my 'blank' melted'.

The aim of the game is for the team members to complete the sentence in the same way as their teammate at the front of the class.

Everyone secretly writes down their missing word or phrase, without talking. When everyone has written an answer, the team members take it in turns to say or show their word or phrase.

The student at the front then reveals their answer. For every matching answer, teams score a point. Two new students then come up to the front and so on. The team with the most points at the end of the game wins.
