Introduction

In this hotel requests game, students mime and guess hotel requests.

Procedure

Tell the students to imagine that they are at a hotel reception in a country where they can't speak the language, and that they have to mime requests to the hotel receptionist.

Explain that each request begins with Could you...? or Could I...?

Divide the students into teams of four and have each team pair up with an opposing team.

Give each pair of teams a set of cards.

Ask the students to shuffle the cards and place them face-down in a pile in front of them.

A student from one team picks up a card and mimes the request to the two teams, e.g. 'Could you help me with my suitcase?'

The students in both teams watch the mime and call out their ideas.

The student who is miming points and nods at students who provide accurate guesses until someone says the exact request on the card.

The first student to say the correct request scores a point for their team.

A student from the other team then picks up a card and continues with the second mime and so on.

This continues until all the cards have been used.

The team with the most points at the end of the game wins.

Could you help me with my suitcase?

Could I have an extra key card?

Could you fix my shower?

Could I have a room with a view?

Could you tell me what time the swimming pool opens?
